PIRAEUS, Greece (AP) — A large Greek cruise ship ran aground on rocks about a mile south of the Aegean island of Patmos but all 497 passengers were taken ashore safely, a spokeswoman for the ship's owners said.

She said an attempt to pull the vessel Navarino off the rocks would be made over the weekend. The 17,392-ton ship ran aground Friday night during a Greek island cruise before returning to Venice, Italy.

The passengers will be taken to Rhodes or Athens, the spokeswoman for the Kara-georgis Lines said.
